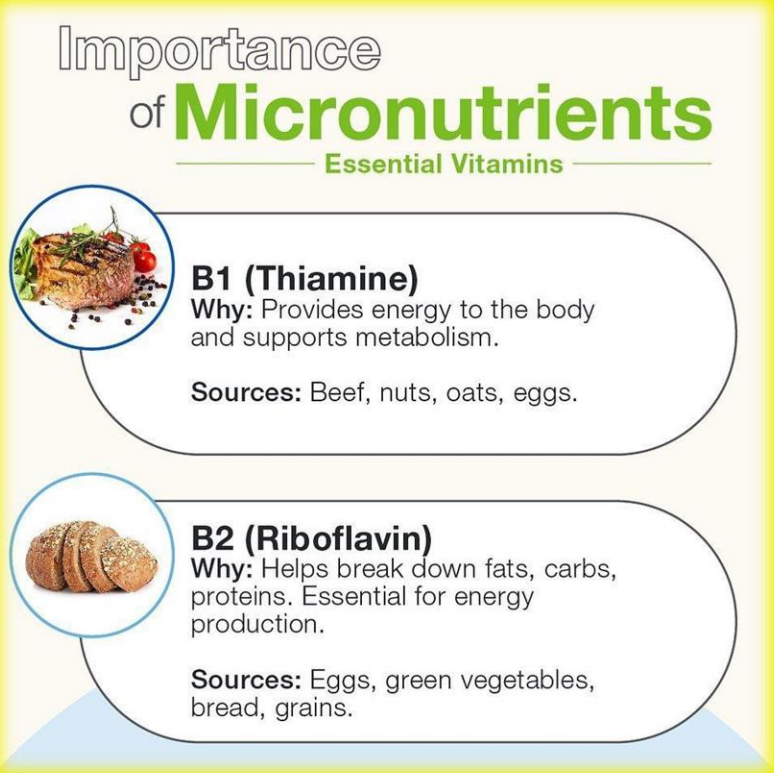
FOCUS OF THE DAY

The Importance of Micronutrients: Essential Vitamins and Minerals



It is important to understand that essential vitamins and minerals need to be obtained from foods or supplements because they cannot be made in the body.

Recipe created by Rachel Allen

This dip with a twist is low in sugars and high in protein. It's a brilliant accompaniment to the Turkey Koftas but you can enjoy it in a multitude of ways – spread on toast with avocado and pine nuts or as a simple dip with carrot and celery sticks.

Peel the beetroot, cut into chunks and place in a food processor. Drain the chick peas from the tin but reserve the liquid. Place the chickpeas in with the beetroot and add the chopped coriander, cumin, tahini paste, F3 PPP, lemon juice and olive oil. Blend well, adding some of the chickpea liquid to loosen the mixture.

Tip the mixture into a bowl and scatter with sesame seeds and some coriander leaves.

Tip: Cover the hummus if storing it in the fridge – preferably in an air tight container.

If you want a bit of heat, add a little chopped red chilli to the food processor.
